Scottsdale-Phoenix-Mesa ranked amongst the top cities for growth in the information economy by Forbes magazine

This year's list may show some of the places both tech and information jobs may be headed in the next few years. The clear rising star is Phoenix, which ranks third. The desert city's information workforce has expanded by 39.29 percent since 2010, the third highest increase of any metropolitan area, just behind the Bay Area twins. In recent years a growing list of Bay Area firms have expanded into the Valley of the Sun, including DoubleDutch, Gainsight, Uber, Prosper Marketplace, Yelp, Weebly, BoomTown, Silicon Valley Bank and Shutterfly.

Scottsdale economic development hits the road to host exclusive event in San Francisco

Scottsdale economic development recently returned from a market visit in San Francisco with partners from the Greater Phoenix Economic Council, APS, SRP, ASU and the Scottsdale Area Chamber of Commerce. The purpose for the trip was to share with potential companies the benefits of our region and to meet with companies which recently chose Scottsdale as their new home for operations. While in town, the team visited the HQ operations of Yelp, Weebly, Theranos and Turo (all firms with Scottsdale operations) while also participating in several new business prospect meetings.

Scottsdale likes what's in store for its retail

The rising desire amongst residents to live a walkable distance from ones work is spawning a new retail trend. "Being able to walk to work has been awesome and gives me such a downtown city-living vibe," said JDA Software program manager Rebecca Fox. "I can't even remember what it's like to have to deal with a rush-hour commute, and I don't ever want to go back."
